What can the Transition Team help with?

Transition Support

Transition Support is an essential service. This means the Transition Support team will still be working during the COVID-19 lockdown.

If you have a Transition Worker, they will be contacting you.

Your Transition Worker wants to make sure you're okay. They will check if you need any help.

If you don't already have a Transition Worker, that's okay. We can sort out someone to help you.

Our Transition Support team can help.
