

Keeping COVID safe when you meet with Talking Trouble

The Talking Trouble team are all vaccinated against COVID. People who are vaccinated can still get COVID. Being vaccinated means that they might not get any symptoms, they might not feel very sick, or they might not know they have COVID. But people who are vaccinated can still give COVID to other people. So, here are things the Talking Trouble team will do to try to keep you and your whānau safe.

We will:

- Stay at home if we feel sick or have any symptoms.
- Show you our vaccine passport if you ask for it.
- Stay 1-2 meters from you if we can.
- Wear a mask unless a mask gets in the way of talking.
- Try to have the meeting outside or in a room with good ventilation (open windows or doors) if possible.
- Use hand sanitiser to clean our hands.
- Use wipes to make sure that anything we've touched is clean.

Please tell us if you or anyone you live with is feeling sick. We can't meet face to face with anyone who is sick, isolating or waiting for a COVID test result. We might be able to have a virtual meeting (Zoom, FaceTime etc.) though. Together, we can work out the best thing to do.
